INTRODUCTION

The Department of Computer Science and Engineering (CSE) is seeking candidates for the position of Assistant Professor. In addition to its graduate program, the CSE Department has undergraduate programs with high demand and growth potential in the College of Engineering. The faculty of the graduate program conduct research projects and have access to excellent research funding mechanisms from the United States federal government and the private industry.

MINIMUM REQUIREMENTS:

Applicants must have earned a Ph.D. in Computer Science, Software Engineering, or a related field at the beginning of the appointment and demonstrate high potential for excellence in research and teaching. The candidate must demonstrate experience or potential to conduct research in one or more of the following areas: 1) Artificial Intelligence, or 2) Software Engineering, both with special focus on health-related or wearable systems. Additional areas include Management of AI Applications in the Cloud, AI Computational Platforms, Large Language Models (LLM) and Large Vision Models (LVM), Cybersecurity, and Big Data Analytics. Other areas of research in the Computing field may also be considered depending on the other qualifications of the candidate.

Among candidates that meet the credentials above, bilingualism (Spanish and English) would be considered a valuable asset.

DUTIES:

The successful candidate is expected to publish research work in peer reviewed conferences and journals, advise graduate students, attract external funding for research and laboratory improvement, and teach undergraduate and graduate courses. Moreover, the candidate must participate in faculty committees, continuous improvement and assessment activities, outreach activities, and support general service in the department.

HOW TO APPLY:

Please send a curriculum vitae, MS and Ph.D. original undergraduate & graduate transcripts, research and teaching plans, a list of at least three (3) professional references, and three (3) letters of reference of peers of the area to the following address:
