

The “Historical” Mini Series

INGL 3345/ Summer 2017 / 12:50-3:15 pm

- While the so-called Historical Mini Series is not new, it is emerging as a dominant genre, its stock rising with new streaming technologies and “bingeing” audiences.

- You’ll learn how to “read” these images, account for their hold on fans, and assess the kinds of cultural work such stories are doing in today’s world.

Standing stones become a time machine in this mash up of history and romance.

Ragnar Shaggy-Pants is most famous for the skaldic “drapa” he composed in Aelle’s snakepit. “We fought with swords!”

Think now, history has many cunning passages

Nick Haydock